It's Gittin' There!

As most of Hallie's friends know, her husband, Kirk Worden, has been building a lake house for the last kazillion years. It's not done.....but almost. We thought you might like to see a picture of the progress. We're planning on using it for our corporate meetings and brain storming sessions. As you might imagine, those sessions come more frequently in the summer. The architect was Randy Hone who recently had a feature home in the Home section of the NewsLeader. Hopefully, when completed, this project will make an appearance there also. After enduring the ongoing construction, they are still married and have learned a lot about home building, which will definitely help in the real estate biz.

Mittens - the new member of the OzarksHome.com Team!

This real estate business is wearing "meowt". I was at PetSmart one day when this lady, Hallie, came in and called her friend Marilyn. Marilyn took one look at me and called this man, Larry. I heard a whole lot of whining and pleading. The next thing I knew, I was the newest, cutest member of the OzarksHome.com team. My official duties are to help Gail client coordinate (see photo), play with the phone cord when it rings, purr really loud, and entertain the rest of the team. My unofficial duties are to listen in on interesting real estate news and report back to you the inside scoop. I love people, so you're to come visit me (and bring string). Mittens

A Moment with Marilyn

This is something I enjoyed and I wanted to share it with you. MD

Hallie's Comment:

My first year in real estate has been unbelievable. I am very grateful for the success I've had and all the support and referrals my friends have sent me. I have had a client tell us "You are the answer to my prayers". I somehow never heard those words when I was selling T.V. advertising. In this last year, I have changed my own opinion about realtors and have come to realize it can be a very noble profession when you take great care of your clients.
